very human accomplishment stands as a memorial to a man, or a group of men. Each of us leaves his impress on the world through which we pass.

Sometimes a man makes his mark through the organization of a great company, by the invention of an article of value to all humanity, or by high accomplishment in the field of letters. There are others who gain lasting fame as military leaders, statesmen, explorers.

Public notice of the service rendered mankind by such as these frequently takes the physical forms of monuments, triumphal arches, statuary, and the like.

For most of us, however, the kindly remembrance of friends and associates, is often our chief memorial. Little that is concrete or enduring reminds the world that we did accomplish success in our way—that our benefactions were important to humanity.

This does not need to be so. To most of us, either as individuals or in groups, there are available lasting, life-giving memorials. These are concrete things which our friends and associates may see and use. Memorials of this sort are within the reach of many as individuals, even more in groups.

The hospital rooms, facilities and equipment shown and listed in this booklet are available to all.

They will perpetuate the memories of those who purchase them, both as lasting objects and as health-protecting services which will aid mankind now and in the future.

They will endure and, as Shakespeare wrote: "Nor Mars his sword, nor war's swift fire shall burn the living record of your memory."

A LASTING MEMORIAL TO SERVE MANKIND

The new wing of the Lutheran Hospital will contain a number of memorial opportunities.

What could be more beneficent than the perpetuation of a hospital room or facility that will aid in the healing of the sick for years to come? The Federated Hospital Building Fund offers you an unequalled opportunity to set up a memorial that will endure for generations.

These memorials may be established in your name or in the name of some member of your family. They may be dedicated in the name of a company or the employees of a firm. They are available also to club or church groups.

You may choose a room, a surgery, a solarium, or you may want to memorialize an entire department or a nursing unit. All are possibilities. Study the list of these memorial opportunities and make a choice. An appropriate plaque will be placed upon your memorial.

It will serve as evidence to present and future citizens of this community of your civic pride, your generosity and your deep interest in the health and well-being of your fellow-man.

With your gift you may select a memorial in either hospital. The following pages outline the possibilities in both the old and new sections of the Lutheran Hospital.

"For the common man, the best memorial is some beneficent thing or function that shall bear his name."

THE SOCIETY OF FOUNDERS

In design and materials Parkview Memorial Hospital will be basically utilitarian. But in its simplicity it will be a thing of outstanding beauty. Rapidly rising above one of the most attractive sites in the city, it will remain a community inspiration far beyond the present century.

Civic pride in this institution will enhance the personal satisfaction of those citizens whose gifts make the institution possible. Because the humanitarian spirit prompting the gifts merits tangible recognition the Society of Founders was formed in the 1950 Campaign. Many individuals and firms took advantage of the memorial opportunities offered and many more are still available in the new building.

All citizens are invited to participate in the membership of the Society of Founders.

Available memorial opportunities suitable for individual and corporate consideration are listed on the following pages. In order to make possible maximum gifts, payments may be scheduled over a period of three tax years.

Parkview Memorial Hospital Completion Fund is charitable and non-profit in character. Gifts may be made in stocks, bonds, securities, and other property. Persons having stock or property which has a low cost base for income tax purposes, may make gifts in such property with substantial tax advantage.

Because the Federal grant absorbs part of the construction costs, founders opportunities in the new Parkview Memorial Hospital are available to individuals, corporations, and organizations at approximately one-half the actual cost.

Parkview Memorial Hospital

PROPOSED RESIDENTIAL AND EDUCATIONAL FACILITIES

The new Parkview Nurses' Residential and Educational facilities will provide a neat and attractive arrangement. Instead of the customary method of housing all facilities in one building, an attractive "campus" arrangement, consisting of three separate residence buildings and one educational building, has been developed.

This method of construction has been adopted for the following reasons:

(1) The intimate type of one-story structure will provide, in addition to the attractive campus arrangement, a "homey" rather than an institutional feeling;

(2) The light, one-story construction is adaptable to the more economical building costs;

(3) The separate residence buildings will create three individual "houses", to which each group of nurses will feel the same attachment that is characteristic of separate dormitories or sorority houses on college campuses;

(4) The one-story arrangement eliminates stairways, elevators, and is ideal from a supervision standpoint;

(5) In the event of any future change in the general method of nursing education, the campus type of separated structure provides maximum flexibility, and any change or possible conversion of the buildings to other purposes can be easily accomplished.

The Educational Building will be placed nearest State Boulevard and will be provided with a reasonable amount of parking space so that the building can be used for community or other meetings which might require public attendance. The three residences will be grouped south of the school building in an attractive, campus-type arrangement.

The three residences are T-shaped structures, with the bedrooms arranged in a simple and economical scheme, a straight wing approximately 38 feet x 157 feet long. The leg of the "T" forming the front entrance wing will house a lounge (with kitchenette facilities), two visitors' parlors, and suite for the house mother.

This arrangement will, to a certain extent, isolate the more noisy activities in the lounge area from the sleeping area. With the exception of two single rooms, all bedrooms will be double rooms, and of adequate size to provide ample space for study desks, in addition to the beds and built-in wardrobe facilities. The residence buildings will have pitched, single roofs with a domestic character in the exterior and interior architecture.

The Educational Building will be a one-story frame roof masonry structure designed along the character of modern, contemporary school building construction. It will contain a lecture room with a seating capacity of 150, with a smaller lecture room connected by a sliding partition so as to provide a total seating capacity of 200. The nursing arts room will be at a higher level than the lecture room, and arranged to open into the lecture room so as to form a stage or demonstration area.

Available memorials in the Nurses' Residences and Educational Building are listed on the following pages.

How to Invest in Hospitals

Financial support to our hospitals in a very real sense represents an investment in the future health, welfare and growth of our community.

The Federal government, as well as governments of several states levying income, gift, and succession premium taxes, directly encourage such gifts through exemption. As a result tax savings make possible large gifts at a minimum cost to the corporate or individual donor.

Such investment gifts may be made to the Lutheran and Parkview Memorial Federated Hospital Building Fund in several ways. Gifts may be made in cash, through transfer of securities or property, or through a foundation.

Gifts are deductible in computing individual or corporate Federal income tax, within the 15% and 5% limitations (respectively) prescribed.

Gifts made in property present these advantages:

(a) They are deductible under the Federal Income Tax to the extent of 15% of net income in the case of individuals, and 5% of net income in the case of corporations;

(b) They are entirely free of gift-tax burdens.

(c) They reduce the estate so as to minimize eventual Federal estate and Indiana inheritance taxes.

"The support of educational, health, scientific and welfare activities is something more than a duty—it is an opportunity as well." These words are those of Beardsley Ruml, author of the "pay-as-you-go" plan of income tax collection, and Theodore Geiger. Their views on corporate giving were recently published in a pamphlet by the National Planning Association. They say further:

> "The impact of solidly conceived corporate contributions for welfare and educational purposes increases geometrically its size . . . They (such contributions) create a highly favorable atmosphere for the corporation within which its other business activities—for example, its sales promotion and its labor relations—have a much better chance of being successful."

THREE YEARS TO PAY

When you consider your contribution to the Federated Hospital Building Fund, remember that the gift does not have to be paid in full at the time you sign the pledge card. You may spread payment of pledges over a three-year period, paying annually, quarterly, or monthly, as you prefer. Actually, this gives you four tax years to liquidate your pledge.

Besides the building units of the various Hospitals, there will be many items of equipment available as memorials, some of these are listed below.
